DETAILED ACTIONElection/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Group 1, claims 8-10 are drawn to a dynamic RAM capable operating in either test mode or normal mode which comprises a first cell, first characterization cell, and second characterization cell all coupled to first bit line; second cell, third characterization cell, and fourth characterization cell all coupled to second bit line, a sense amplifier..., wherein during normal mode the first memory cell is selectively enabled to transfer a first memory charge onto first bitline, etc...; wherein during a first test mode the first characterization cell is selectively enabled to transfer a predetermined first reference charge onto the first bit line, etc..., and wherein during a second test mode the second characterization cell is selectively enabled to transfer a predetermined third reference charge onto the first bit line, etc...;

Group 2, claims 21-30 are drawn to a method of testing a memory device which includes the steps of "generating an even test voltage on the even reference supply line, the even test voltage being a function of physical location along the reference supply line", "generating an odd test voltage on the odd reference supply line...", and "testing at least one of the sense amplifiers using at least one test cell coupled to the even reference supply line and at least one test cell coupled to the odd reference supply line".

Group 3, claims 31-34 are drawn to a method for determining the sensitivity of a sense amplifier which includes the steps of "isolating first and second cells from first and second bit lines", "placing first reference charge with first characterization cell", placing second reference charge with third characterization cell", "transferring first reference charge from first characterization cell to first bit line", "transferring second reference charge from second characterization cell to second bit line", "sensing a first voltage differential appearing between the first bit line and the second bit line", etc.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
